

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a method for identifying and producing effectors of peptidyl-prolyl cis/trans isomerases which can be activated by calmodulin. The invention also relates to the use of the identified effectors for the production of medicaments and to screening methods and kits.